

Pregnancy Toxemia Revive Recipe

I had to go to the Star of Texas for 3 days. I took her to the vet to keep during that time. I took her feed and hay. He gave her half a gallon of Keto drench (a propylene glycol product with vitamins) twice a day. When I went to pick her up, he told me she was going to die. She was comatose. I got a 500ml bottle of 50% Dextrose, and poured it down her. When I got her back to the ranch, I unloaded her, and gave her a 3 scoops of Calf Pac, and 200 cc of Revive mixed with water 50:50, and did that every hour for several hours. She woke up, and I reduced her treatment to every 3 hours. By dark, she was better, but not up. I gave her 10 oz of Magic. The next morning, when I got there, she was standing, and her feed and hay was gone.

I think the key is to give enough of it. Some people do not give enough Revive, or Magic. Like using the Propylene glycol, and only giving an ounce twice a day. That just is not enough to do the job. I have treated goats with Propylene glycol and had them go down hill no matter what I did, even with the calf pac, and vitamins. I have half a gallon of Propylene glycol in my barn. It did not work like Revive. Revive for pregnancy toxemia is not the same as Revive for stressed animals. I mix it as follows for Pregnancy toxemia.

500ml 50% Dextrose

500ml Amino acid solution (if using the concentrate use 50cc)

200ml Calcium Gluconate

20ml B complex

2 grams ascorbic acid

5 ml B12

5 ml 500mg/ml Thiamin

Keep in a cool dark place. Use a clean jar to put it in.

Coni Ross